

Harry Kanasa
Griffith University
h.kanasa@griffith.edu.au

Analysing Indigenous Seasons to Determine the Epistemological & Ontological Underpinnings of Indigenous Knowledge

Keywords:

Indigenous Science,
Indigenous Perspectives

Learning areas:

Science,
Integrated STEM

In this workshop, we use the jigsaw method to explore the seasonal calendars of a number of Australian First Nations peoples to deduce the epistemological and ontological underpinnings of Indigenous knowledge systems or 'coming to understand the indigenous world view'. This activity is suitable for students of upper primary and higher.